I was terrified of back surgery... But ProBack Clinics changed my life!

By KERRY RAMM

In early 2015, Gabrielwa Dempsey's life took a turn for the worst when she fell down the stairs, leaving her back in daily, agonising pain. At just 19 years old, the international law student from Essex realised something was seriously wrong while attending her usual class, only to be unable to sit down without perching on the edge of her seat.

Due to Gabrielwa's age, her injury was mistaken for muscle spasms, for which she was given various different pain medication in an attempt to get her pain under control. "I was having to take strong painkillers every day, but nothing was enough to control the pain – it literally prevented me from doing everything. I didn't want to walk, even lying down was painful."

When this became simply too much, her doctors agreed to send her for an MRI where the full extent of her condition was discovered. With one herniated disc and another slightly bulged, they offered her the choice between back surgery, injections or physiotherapy. "I did three sessions of physio but after each session I was in more and more pain. It got so bad I tried injections, I was even hospitalised and put on gas and air!"

As a student, she was unable to finish her second year of university and had to defer her examinations until this year as the daily intake of pain killers left her memory too fuzzy to enable her to concentrate. Sadly, Gabrielwa's case is not unique as more than 31 million days of work were lost in 2013 due to back, neck and muscle problems [Office for National Statistics]. This makes spinal issues more prevalent than the common cold, which accounted for around 27 million days off work.

In October 2015, back surgery seemed to be Gabrielwa's only option and the date was set for new year's eve. "I never thought I was going to get better, I couldn't go out at all as nothing was worth the pain of getting dressed." It was then she discovered

"Before I found ProBack, I had pain for about nine months, my muscles had seized up so much that nothing helped. So when I began the shockwave treatment and it started helping to break down the scar tissue, I realised how much quicker I was getting better. I'm so grateful to be out of pain, which has had such a positive impact on my life. I've got so much energy now and I'm looking forward to the future again."

Gabrielwa Dempsey on the spinal decompression machine

ProBack Clinic. Under the supervision of Dr Christian Allard, doctor of chiropractic, they have treated over 10,000 of the most challenging cases of back pain in the last nine years. They currently use an ever expanding array of cutting edge technologies to attain outstanding results in even the most challenging cases. "It is the combination of our advanced technologies that often gives us the best results" says Dr David Brown, chiropractor & Clinic Director at ProBack Clinic Surbiton.

ProBack Clinics gave Gabrielwa an initial course of shockwave sessions – an application of radial shockwave therapy which reduces muscle spasms and decreases stiffness to joints by improving movement. Shockwave is particularly useful in the reduction of back and neck pain and has been shown to increase tissue blood flow, oxygenation and encourage tissue healing.

"Within one week there was a significant difference in the amount of pain, I could move my legs a lot easier. When they introduced decompression therapy my results just got better and better each time – it was amazing!" For those suffering with the symptoms of slipped and bulging discs, spinal decompression therapy provides an excellent, non-surgical approach to relief. Although research on spinal decompression goes back 35 years, the latest research shows improvement in up to 88.9% of cases. Using a dynamic traction, spinal decompression is effective in both chronic neck and back pain sufferers.

BARBARISM

REPORTER

JON MITCHELL

jonathan.mitchell@london.newsquest.co.uk

AN Old Malden man laughed in the dock as he was jailed for 15 years for a 'barbaric' acid attack that left a woman scarred and partially blind.

Brothers Billy and Geoffrey Midmore threw acid over the face of Carla Whitlock in an attack in Southampton last September after the pair blamed her for a botched drug deal.

The brothers were sentenced at Southampton Crown Court on Tuesday.

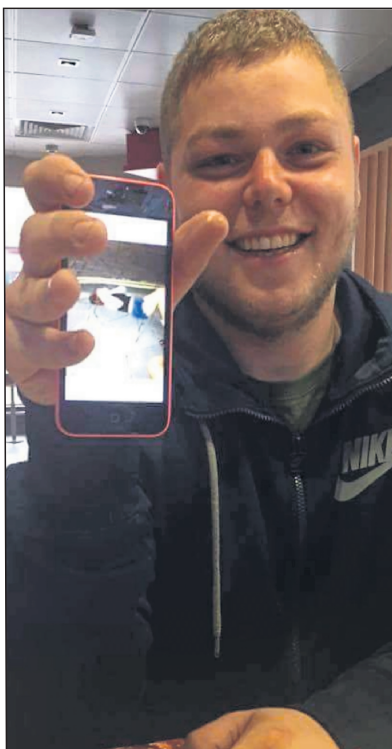

Last week an image of Billy holding up a smartphone displaying a photo of a woman lying on the ground holding her face was uploaded onto a Facebook page purporting to be his.

A Prison Service spokesman branded the image "completely unacceptable" and said that Midmore could face more prison time.

An earlier post showed the results of an online quiz called "Is a serial killer hiding in yourself?" An accompanying comment read: "lol I've got big, big potential".

Prisoners are not allowed access to Facebook. It is not known who was running the account.

Sentencing the Midmores, both of Sheephouse Way, Judge Peter Ralls QC said it was "a cruel and calculated attack" "on a level of medieval barbarism beyond most people's comprehension."

Defending, Mark Ruffell described Billy, 23, as a "complex character with many issues which hopefully will be addressed in the next few years."

During a seven-day trial in Southampton in April, jurors heard how the acid attack was a "debt to be paid" organised by the Midmores, after Ms Whitlock called asking for £100 of drugs.

Smiling evil: Billy Midmore with a smartphone appearing to show a woman cowering on the floor after an attack. Inset: Geoffrey Midmore. Above inset: Carla Whitlock after the attack

When at least two men met Geoffrey and stole £2,000 of drug money the brothers blamed Ms Whitlock and began planning their attack.

CCTV footage was shown of Billy Midmore buying drain cleaner, which his brother had described to him in a text message as "face melter."

Prosecutor Kerry Maylin said it is unlikely Ms Whitlock will regain sight in her right eye, and that her face will be permanently disfigured.

Ms Whitlock said in an interview that "it's a miserable existence. I have no life, everything has changed."

A jury found Billy guilty of grievous bodily harm, while Geoffrey pleaded guilty at the first opportunity.

Billy, 23, was jailed for 15 years in prison plus another five years on licence.

He laughed in the dock as his sentence was read out.

Geoffrey, 27, was jailed for nine years.

Defending, Rob Pawson said Geoffrey was more of "a follower" and had told him: "I can't believe what I have done to a woman".

Detectives from the Metropolitan Police's sexual offences exploitation and child abuse command investigated the alleged rape. Mr Allen was remanded in custody to appear at Isleworth Crown Court on Friday, July 1.

Locks glued, tyres slashed and a Star of David scrawled on shop front sparks investigation

Barber believes he is the victim of hate campaign after latest incident

REPORTER

rachael.burford@london.newsquest.co.uk

A SURBITON barber has claimed glued locks, slashed tyres and now a seemingly anti-Semitic sign scrawled on the front of his shop are part of a "hate campaign" he has been a victim of since he opened almost four months ago.

Surbiton Talent Barbers in Claremont Road had a Star of David scrawled on the front of the shop last Monday.

Owner Taher Hachem, 30, said he came to open the shop at 9am only to discover an irate Jewish man outside who said he had called the police because of the large white symbol painted on the front window.

He said: "I thought he was a customer. I had never seen the symbol before and did not know what it meant. I am just thinking, 'Who could have done this?'

"We do not hate anybody here.

"We are Muslim but we are British. We look like we are from the Middle East but this country is our home.

"Our children are British and go to school here. I do not know why someone would not want us here."

Mr Hachem, who is originally from Lebanon, claims the graffiti is the latest in a long line of incidents that have happened since he took over the shop.

He said: "We have had our car tyres slashed and glue put in our lock so we could not open the shop.

"There is a hate campaign."

The barber of 14 years worked at J's Gentlemen Barbers, the men's hairdresser opposite his, for six years before buying his own shop.

He said: "I have been around Surbiton and Kingston for 14 years. I really love it here. I don't know why someone would want me to leave."

Ismael Ashin, 33, who works in the shop, added: "I think someone wants to see the police outside our door, to make it look like we are causing trouble. We are not trouble, we just cut hair."

A Kingston police spokesman said: "A member of the public reported to us that a

shop had been criminally damaged and that the Star of David had been painted on the window. The shop owner was spoken to by police and we have now launched an investigation. We request that anyone with information calls us on 101 and quotes reference 0405781/16."

Floods leave Dons' plans in deep water

AFC Wimbledon may be floating on air after winning the League Two play-off final, but the road earmarked as their future home found itself in deep water after recent flash floods.

Videos and photos showed cars struggling through rising water on Wednesday, June 8, after torrential rain caused flash floods across south London.

The worst flooding was near a bridge over the Wandle and some residents have disputed there was any flooding around Wimbledon Stadium, the proposed site for the Dons' return to the borough.

It has been a contentious issue on the Plough Lane site. The Environment Agency (EA) raised concerns in January 2015 that the site lies in the Wandle's floodplain, ranking it as being within the highest category of flood risk. This risk was downgraded in the latest flood risk modelling, and in November, the EA withdrew the objection.

The plans for a stadium, homes, shops and a fitness centre, were approved at a Merton Council planning committee in December.

Don't touch caterpillar nests

THE Forestry Commission has renewed its warning to dog walkers and others to avoid touching the nests of oak processionary moths because of the caterpillars' irritating, microscopic hairs.

Touching the nests where the grubs drop thousands of the hairs can result in nasty skin rashes and eye irritation for people and animals – and, in rare cases, breathing problems.

The caterpillars are considered a pest because they can strip an oak tree bare of its leaves.

A spokesman said: "The nests become discoloured after several days, and harder to see as a result. They can also fall out of trees, creating a hazard to curious children and pets, and grazing livestock."

Fair policy to change?

SHOULD the circus come rolling into Kingston or simply pass the borough by?

Kingston Council is looking to answer the question by hosting a two-week trial funfair next month to test the waters ahead of a planned change to its events policy that would permit a small number of funfairs and circuses each year.

The Fairfield Recreation Ground will host Irvin's Funfair, a family-oriented fair that also runs at Hampton Court, from Monday, July 4, to Monday, July 18.

Cllr Phil Doyle, cabinet member for parks and open spaces, said: "We are very lucky to have a range of parks and open spaces within the borough.

"We have specifically chosen Irvin's Family Funfair, who operate in neighbouring Hampton Court, because of their family friendly atmosphere. They also employ a strict no alcohol rule."

Currently only one circus is allowed per year. But the authority proposes considering additional visits on a case-by-case basis. Kingston Council consulted with residents near the Fairfield in 2012 about what types of events they wanted in the park, and said most were in favour of more funfairs.

Legion d'honneur sent across Channel to mark bravery of Arthur, 92, at Normandy landings

French honour for great-grandad who helped liberate France in 1944

RACHAEL BURFORD

rachael.burford@
london.newsquest.co.uk

A 92-YEAR-old Chessington great-grandfather has been honoured by the French government with the country's highest military award.

Arthur Burt, of Compton Crescent, was given the Légion d'Honneur because of his bravery at the Normandy landings during the Second World War.

Mr Burt was 18 years old when he was conscripted and joined the Royal Artillery.

On June 6, 1944, at just 21, he found himself storming the beaches in northern France as part of unit in charge of heavy guns.

He said: "I watched the shelling from the boat. I was on an American ship at the time because the equipment we had was so big and towing six tonnes of ammunition.

"A boat in front of me was hit and completely blown to dust. It was dust and everyone on it was dust. It was consuming, scary. The Germans had put mines on top of each other [leading up to the beach]. We got the message we weren't welcome."

When Mr Burt reached the beach, the operation was not the swift victory that many had been led to believe it would be. He said: "We didn't move out of the beach for five weeks. It was hell there. Many gave their lives and most gave up their youth on those beaches." Mr Burt left the army in 1946, a year after the armistice.

He said: "My regiment was created for the war so it was disbanded. I had to wait in Germany for more than a year before I could go home though. After the war I became a shop fitter and then a contracts officer. An old soldier never retires and I worked with my tools until I was 85."

Mr Burt was awarded the Chevalier (Knight) degree of the order at a ceremony at the French embassy in Knightsbridge on May 27, joined by his daughter and son-in-law.

In a letter to Mr Burt, Sylvie Bermann, the French ambassador to the United Kingdom, wrote: "As we contemplate this Europe of peace, we must never forget the heroes like you, who came from Britain and the Commonwealth to begin the liberation of Europe by liberating France. We owe our freedom and security to your dedication, because you were ready to risk your life."

Bad day for driver as Lambo towed

Bad day: The Huracan is towed away.

Kingston police

A DRIVER had a very bad day when their £180,000 Lamborghini Huracan was towed away - after police alleged they had no insurance.

The car was pulled over in a 'routine' stop at 5am last Tuesday in Cambridge Road, Kingston, police said.

The driver was alleged to be without insurance and the bright green supercar - which has a 5.2-litre, 602hp V10 engine - was seized.

In a review on Driving.co.uk Jeremy Clarkson said of the car: "What you want from Lambo is a Game of Thrones assault on the senses, and, I dunno, the Huracan is a bit Wolf Hall."

But he added it was 'joyous' to drive.

The cost of driving without insurance can be £300 plus six penalty points, or an unlimited fine if the case goes to court.

Meeting to discuss plans marks progress towards easing school places

Parents may finally get the school they were promised

REPORTER

jonathan.mitchell@london.newsquest.co.uk

SURBITON parents could finally have the free school they were promised three years ago.

Free school provider Stamp Education Trust (SET) announced in April that it would submit a planning application to open Parks House School in either Surbiton or Tolworth in 2018. Now the group will hold consultation meetings with parents and residents with a view to opening the school near Fishponds park.

Plans to build a new free school in Surbiton have proved unsuccessful in the past, with Gems Learning Trust's attempts seeing Swan House – on a main road in Kingston town centre – gain government approval instead.

Matteo Rossetti, founder of SET, said: "I don't know the details of that experience [with Gems]. It's about replicating the model that we've tried to do before."

"It's really because there is a dire need for primary places and we are trying to respond to that need."

The provider will host two meetings at the King Charles Centre, in Hollyfield Road, where it will present its vision for the free school.

If the school is built, pupils will undertake three hours of sport and two hours of music each week, which Mr Rossetti described as "just as important" as the core subjects.

SET's first school, Thompson House, which opened in 2013 in Mortlake, was rated "outstanding" by Ofsted.

Mr Rossetti added: "It's kind of having a more all-round approach. We've an open-door policy and parents will have huge participation in the school as well."

"I think the parents are going to see a place that is responsive to their needs and a place that feels like a community."

Figures published by the Greater London Authority predicted the number of school places needed for four-year-olds in Berrylands by 2018 will be 144 – a rise of 12 per cent on the current figures moving onto primary education.

In March, it was also revealed that Kingston primary schools are the most oversubscribed in London, with 50 per cent running at or over capacity.

The plans will be subject to approval from the Department for Education.

Kingston and Surbiton MP James Berry said: "It's brilliant news. They are one of the few free school providers to get an 'outstanding' on their first application."

"What we need to do now is make sure we have parents behind it. I think they will have no problem doing that."

The meetings will take place on July 2 and September 10 at 10am.

Reassurance: Pride parade

Chief’s letter over parade

A METROPOLITAN Police commander has written a letter of encouragement to people who plan to march in this year’s Pride parade, following the horrific Orlando massacre.

Forty-nine people died after gunman Omar Mateen opened fire with a military-style assault rifle in gay nightclub Pulse in the Florida city last week.

Commander Mak Chishty said a record number of groups had applied to join the march next Saturday, including some 100 police officers.

He wrote: “The security plan has been reviewed and the situation is continuously monitored and remains under review. The Met will have an increased visible policing presence at the parade.”

Teen avoids jail after theft ends in long moped chase

REPORTER
REBECCA TAYLOR

A TEENAGER has dodged an immediate prison sentence after he led police on a high-speed chase from Chessington to Twickenham in the middle of the night.

Frank Fisher, 18, admitted a string of offences including attempted burglary, dangerous driving and handling stolen goods, after a chase on May 25, starting at 2.13am in Hook Road and ending in Twickenham at 3.38am. Police were called to Elm Road at 2.10am after Fisher and others were seen trying to steal a motorbike.

When police arrived, the group rode away on mopeds, one of which had been stolen from Battersea Park, Wimbledon Magistrates’ Court heard last week.

Fisher is currently completing an unpaid work order for separate offences including driving without insur-

District Judge James Henderson said “the combination of the offences” was “so serious that a community order cannot be justified.”

He added: “You were not by yourself, so I am prepared to give you the benefit of the doubt that you were led astray by these others.”

Fisher, of Upper Halliford Road in Sunbury, admitted attempted theft of a motor vehicle, attempted burglary, dangerous driving, driving without a licence and insurance, failing to stop for an officer, aggravated vehicle theft, handling stolen goods and going equipped for theft. He was sentenced to 20 weeks in a young offenders institution, suspended for 12 months. He was disqualified from driving for a year and ordered to pay £200.

£420k for a studio flat? Ouch

PRICES for studio flats in Berkeley Homes’ new development on Kingston’s old gas holders site will start at an eye-watering £420,000, the developer has announced.

Berkeley was given permission to build 315 homes in the Sury Basin area last year and has named its planned Queenshurst complex.

In a statement released last Wednesday the luxury house-builder said its new flats would be perfect for people looking to “boost their happiness levels”.

In February the Kingston Guardian reported that home buyers in Kingston would have to earn a massive £114,000 a year and have £57,000 squirrelled away in savings to get onto the borough’s property ladder.

The average Kingston home now costs some £570,000. Berkeley sales director Tim Pettman said the development would “set a new benchmark for Kingston”. It is just one of numerous redevelopments that will change the face of the town centre in coming years.

Examples of Berkeley’s flats will go on show when the sales suite opens, July 9.

Monte Cassino was one of the Second World War's toughest and bloodiest battles in Western Europe. When ex-trooper Ernie Prior returned there to visit the Allied cemetery, the first grave he came across was a soldier from his regiment. The memories are still vivid in his mind all these years later.

Today, the specialist nursing and therapeutic care that Ernie receives from The Royal Star & Garter Homes – Surbiton allows him to retain his mobility and independence. However, as a charity, we rely on the generosity of our supporters to fund the high level of specialist care that we provide.

CQC says mental health patients lacked regular observations

Improvement pledge: David Bradley, right

Trust is told to improve

REPORTER

JON SHARMAN

jon.sharman@london.newsquest.co.uk

A MENTAL health trust has been told it must improve after inspectors found patients did not receive notification of appointments and rehabilitation services did not help people achieve greater independence.

The Care Quality Commission (CQC) also said staff "were not being supported with regular one-to-one supervision" across a number of wards run by South West London and St George's mental health trust, which provides services to 1.1 million people in Kingston, Richmond, Sutton, Merton and Wandsworth.

But CQC chief inspector of hospitals Paul Lelliott, a mental health expert, said: "Despite these areas for improvement there was much for the trust to be proud of.

"The senior executive team were committed to improving services and providing a high standard of care. Most staff said they enjoyed working for the trust, were caring, professional and in many cases innovative in their work."

Inspectors found provision in other areas to be good, including acute care, services for people in crisis, community services including those for children, and wards that house older people with mental health problems.

Trust chief executive David Bradley said: "I am proud of our staff and we will never be complacent in making services better. There is a great deal of work still to be done.

"Building on the improvements we have already made in the acute care pathway, we will use the same successful approach for improving our rehabilitation and community services. We have already begun working."

Inspectors added in a report published last week: "In the forensic service and the child and adolescent mental health ward the trust was not recognising when they were secluding patients. This meant that the appropriate safeguards in terms of regular observations and medical review were not in place.

"There were significant challenges in the community services for working age adults, especially the recovery teams where staff morale was lower and staff were worried about meeting the complex needs of the patients on their caseloads.

"[But] the culture of the trust was largely healthy. The trust was working with local communities to overcome the stigma of mental illness and make services more accessible."

Hop to beer and cider festival

THE 2016 Cuddington Beer Festival kicks off on Friday, July 15 and concludes on Saturday, July 16, and will feature 20 ciders and 41 beers, all from the West Country.

The beer festival will be held at Rowe Hall, in Worcester Park, and standard tickets are £5. The beer is £1 for each 1/3 pint, and there is a £10 'queue buster' ticket option, which grants the holder six 1/3 pint tokens and a standard entry ticket.

Each ticket holder will receive a souvenir pint glass and a programme with tasting notes. Under-18s are allowed with adult ticket holders during the Saturday lunch session, noon to 4pm, but not during the evening session.

Here's to you: Raising a pint sions on July 15 and 16, 6pm to 10pm.

Only guide dogs will be allowed in the hall, and the event is fully wheelchair-accessible. All proceeds go to the 2nd Cuddington Scouts.

Christmas comes early

THEY say Christmas starts earlier each year.

And the people of Worcester Park would surely agree after the area's festive illuminations were switched on in mid-June.

Ironically, the lights had remained off throughout the Christmas period as "technical difficulties" dimmed the town's yuletide spirit.

But the Central Road illuminations, paid for by Sutton Council, have finally begun to sparkle a mere six months late – or early.

Richard Johnson, of the Worcester Park Residents' Association (WPRA), who noticed the lights were on at about 10.30pm last Sunday, said: "Switching on Christmas lights should be such a routine, mundane and easy thing to do, so why can't we get this right?"

Simon Densley, WPRA chairman, said: "We always seem to have major problems with the lights in Worcester Park, and the previous year it was really abysmal."

Cllr Richard Marston, chairman of the council's Cheam North and Worcester Park Local Committee, said: "We'll be working again with the traders this year. Hopefully this year things will be better."

Uni prof made a liveryman

A KINGSTON University professor has been honoured as a liveryman for a top London publishing regulator.

Alison Baverstock was clothed as a liveryman of The Worshipful Company of Stationers and Newspaper Makers at a ceremony at Stationers' Hall, central London, on June 7.

She joins famous names such as Rupert Murdoch and TV host David Starkey as a liveryman and was one of five members to be inducted that day.

Dr Baverstock, of Homersham Road, Norbiton, said: "It's impressive to own something older than your profession. It was a very special ceremony."

Dr Baverstock is an associate professor and engagement officer at the uni and has had works published in academic journals.

The Stationers' Company has 800 members, mainly executives in the visual and graphic communications industries.

Prithi Surbiton

For years my best friend has been trying to persuade me to go for a curry with her and I always refuse. I'm not a fan of spicy food and being a nut allergy sufferer Indian style cuisine was never top of my list. However last Wednesday she won the battle with the delightful Prithi in Surbiton and I'm never looking back.

So off we went on a quiet Wednesday evening to enjoy a girly evening. We walked in to a clean and well-presented restaurant with a buzzing atmosphere. We were then shown to a large table in the front of the restaurant with plenty of space for us to enjoy our meal while being able to chat the night away. It was clear to see the new refurbishment. The polite waiter then helped us to choose a wine as we started to look over the vast menu. Although there seemed to be almost too much to choose from, each dish was clearly explained which set my mind at ease that I would find something suitable. At this point I must have had a confused look on my face as our attentive waiter then joined us to help with any recommendations we might need. After much reassurance that we weren't being a pain we settled on a Chicken Phakuroni and Green Garlic King Prawns to start and A Honeymoon Chicken Tikka Bhuna (nice and mild for me) and Royal King Prawn Korai (extra extra spice for my friend) with a wonderfully colourful Pilau rice, Garlic Naan and Saag Aloo.

When the starters arrived I was already a little nervous however the presentation alone set my mind at ease. On gleaming white plates sat a colourful side salad with fresh lemon and succulent looking pieces of grilled chicken and the biggest juiciest prawns we had ever seen. The smell that rose from the steam was divine, enticing you a dig in. A delightful mix of herbs and spices coated the dishes giving it a taste like no other. There 5 star platinum award was clear to see. Once these were demolished our waiter checked in with a smile on his face and our drinks were topped up. Even as the restaurant got busier and busier every table was seen to at the correct time and everyone was laughing and chatting away.

The sizzling mains then reached our table piping hot and smelling even better than the starters. My honeymoon chicken had a sweet tang to it with a subtle tikka flavour and a sauce that made your taste buds tingle. Each large chunk of chicken was moist and flavourful. I could see why they were voted the best curry house by readers. Once again we were served the biggest prawns we had seen with a spicy sauce that was still full of flavour. Once we had demolished everything included a delicious saag aloo, rice and large naan we were more than happy.

I would highly recommend a wonderful and relaxed meal at this delightful restaurant that has changed all my views on this style of cuisine. Why not try their banquet night on a Wednesday evening you will not be disappointed.

Shock announcement leaves 2,500 looking for new practice

Patients in limbo over surgery closure news

do as much as we can to ensure that services work from this site and whoever comes in will provide high-quality, value-for-money services."

Kingston and Surbiton MP James Berry has described the closure as 'a real blow for patients'.

He said: "I am very concerned about the potential closure of Grays Medical Practice and have met with patients and staff to discuss the way forward. This is a real blow for patients at the surgery."

While patients were assured a surgery in some form will remain on the site, about 30 staff are unsure about their future.

Neighbouring Gosbury Hill Health Centre, also run by IMH and which shares staff with Grays, will also close on September 30 following a public consultation. The walk-in centre that was based there is in the process of moving to Surbiton Health Centre.

A staff member said: "We have no idea what is going on. We were only told that the practice was closing when the letters to patients went out."

CONFUSED patients descended on a Hook surgery after the surprise announcement it would close, leaving more than 2,500 people to reregister at another practice.

Grays Medical Practice will close in September after Manchester-based GP provider IMH terminated the contract.

Representatives from IMH, NHS England and Kingston CCG were at the Orchard Gardens surgery to answer questions from patients last Tuesday.

So many turned up to the 11am meeting it had to be done in two parts because the room provided was not big enough.

Some 2,500 patients were sent consultation letters last week asking them whether they would like to see a new provider procured for the surgery or the lists 'dispersed' to other surgeries.

Kathryn McDermott from Kingston CCG assured patients a GP service would remain on the site and added that her preferred

CONFIDENCE IS THE KEY

The ethos and aims of Tiffin School are to support the education of boys in a selective and high achieving environment, where they are encouraged to engage, aspire and excel.

We do this through constantly working to sustain an outstanding quality in our teaching and learning.

Our students become confident independent learners who explore and develop all aspects of their characters as well as achieve excellent exam results.

However, coupled with this is the belief that the development of these young men needs to be matched with a range of co-curricular opportunities that will allow them to become mature young adults who will go on to higher education and successful careers.

At Tiffin we invest in a breadth of curriculum that reflects our specialist interests, offering fantastic opportunities to engage in a range of competitive sports, as well as music, dance and drama to very high levels.

Investment in new facilities in the last few years has seen a new multi-use games area, refurbishment of various parts of the school and new additional teaching and learning facilities.

A new dining hall and five classrooms will be added during the next year.

The School is holding an open evening from 5 – 8 pm on Tuesday, July 5, when parents and their sons are welcome to tour the school, find out more about the School from members of staff and from the Headteacher, who will be giving talks at regular intervals.

TIFFIN SCHOOL, Queen Elizabeth Road, Kingston, Surrey, KT2 6RL. Boys' State Selective School.

BRIGHTMINDS

The Tiffin Girls' School is one of the most successful state schools in the country helping to develop inquisitive, confident, dynamic and successful young women ready for their future lives as global citizens.

The school provides a broad, balanced and challenging curriculum for academically able girls from all backgrounds in a supportive and inclusive environment. We promote a passion for learning and encourage all girls to achieve their individual potential, celebrating their achievements and enabling them to be the very best version of themselves. The school also benefits greatly from a very positive relationship with parents, working together in our common aim which is to encourage and support the girls.

The school is full of opportunity and challenge, promoting a stimulating and creative environment aiding the all-round development of the students.

Our extensive extracurricular programme includes drama, music, sport, enterprise, debating and creative writing; and students also demonstrate their leadership through mentoring younger girls and running clubs. The school boasts an impressive number of sports which caters for all tastes including: netball, hockey, cricket, football, tennis, volleyball and rugby.

Music and the Visual Arts play a large part in Tiffin Girls' development. The opportunities consist of: various school choirs, three orchestras, a jazz group and the opportunity to get involved with the Thames Youth Orchestra and well-equipped arts and ceramics rooms nurture artistic talent.

The school is holding an Open Evening from 4.30 to 7.30 pm on Tuesday 5 July, where girls and their parents are welcome to tour and find out more about our school. The Headteacher will be speaking at regular intervals. Visit tiffingirls.kingston.sch.uk for more information.

OUTSTANDING

Surbiton parents could finally have the primary free school that they have been wanting for the last three years.

Stamp Education Trust (SET) is intending to open a new free school in Surbiton and it is believed that this will help provide much needed school places in the area.

SET opened its first school, Thomson House School in the Mortlake/East Sheen area in September 2013. Last year, Thomson House School was awarded 'Outstanding in all categories' by Ofsted.

Matteo Rossetti founder of Stamp Education Trust said: "Achieving outstanding in all categories was a fantastic endorsement by Ofsted and we are now looking to expand the Trust and work within other areas."

SET is now looking to open two new schools; Parks House School in Surbiton and Franklin House School in Teddington.

Stamp Education will be shortly submitting an application to the Department for Education for approval to open these schools. In order for the application to be successful, SET needs to engage communities and gain support for the education it will be offering.

Support can be registered on the website for Parks House School, parkshouse.school and by attending their public meetings on Saturday, July 2 and Saturday, September 10 at 10am at the King Charles Centre in Surbiton.

Consultation into borough's growth and development plans

Help shape borough's direction for the future

REPORTER
JON MITCHELL
jonathan.mitchell@london.newsquest.co.uk

YOU can help “shape the future direction of the borough” after councillors approved opening a consultation into a new growth and development strategy in Kingston.

The Direction of Travel, a growth strategy document considering “areas of opportunity” to be outlined in the council’s next London Plan, was presented to the Growth Committee at the Guildhall on June 9.

A public consultation will open in the coming weeks, with councillors expected to present the results at the next committee meeting in September.

In the document, council leader Kevin Davis said: “Growth must happen in the right way, in the right places. New opportunities need to be considered in the context of the borough and its residents. All of us working together can provide the homes and jobs future generations need.”

The proposal was jointly prepared by the council and officers

Past and future: Kingston's ancient marketplace from the Greater London Authority and Transport for London to help identify areas for development, with Kingston facing a projected population rise of 55,000 people by 2050.

Areas of “immediate opportunities for growth” were identified as Kingston town centre, New Malden, Tolworth and the Cambridge Road estate.

Kingston Council was given £46.2 million by former London mayor Boris Johnson in April to redevelop the Cambridge Road estate, while a planning application is set to be presented to the council next week for the building of more than 700 homes on Tolworth’s Toby Jug site.

Chessington was named as a potential long-term development area. But some councillors and residents criticised the upcoming consultation, saying that such an “important” document should not be consulted on over the summer holidays.

Broadband

A RECENT survey revealed a sixth of Londoners are unhappy with their broadband speed.

The same research by YouGov tells us only two-thirds of us rate our service as "good" and only a third of broadband providers in London are ready to meet future broadband needs.

While another survey by tech website Thinkbroadband claims that the UK has hit its target of making a super broadband connection available to 90 per cent of homes, as promised back in 2010, it also shows that of more than 400 local authorities across the UK, five – including the City Of London – offer superfast coverage to fewer than half their homes.

Experts at the Foundation for Information Society Policy believe that this threatens the capital's ability to compete with other global cities in the future.

Unfortunately, when I raise this issue – and that of poor mobile phone connectivity – broadband providers, tech companies, national government, town halls and regulators all tend to blame each other. Yet, the same problems have quite clearly been overcome in many of the dozens of other cities around the world. London – the greatest city in the world – deserves better.

WWI diary

A HUNDRED years ago on June 5, Connie Web celebrated her 21st birthday; but who was she?

Ellie Warner took this photo of a swan carrying her cygnet on her back in Kingston Riverside. To see your photo in Borough View e-mail it, along with details of where you took it, to rachael.burford@london.newsquest.co.uk

She lived with her parents and siblings at Albany Park Lodge, Kingston-upon-Thames, now long gone.

What is so remarkable is that from October 23, 1915 to April 7, 1916, she wrote a diary of her life in Kingston. Their home had a large garden overlooking the Thames with a public towpath running in between where she witnessed on numerous occasions Harry Hawker, Tommy Sopwith and other pilots testing the "water-planes" as she called them.

She also refers to taking the very overcrowded first electric trains from Kingston on January 30, 1916, shopping for hats in Griggs, Surbiton, as well as personal matters.

Towards the end of these fascinating memoirs when she is contemplating the family's return to Kingston after its long summer stay in Dorset she refers to families she knows such as the Wainwrights of Surbiton Crescent, the Eldridges, Farloes, Le Grandes, Coombs, Pages and the Spicers of Kingston Hill; no doubt many of their descendants are still living in our area.

I came across this wartime diary through my weekly fix of Kingston Aviation.

BRITAIN has been part of a major and broadly successful economic and peaceful international project for some 40 years. Certainly, it has flaws but it is subject to democratic control both directly and through the elected UK government; at the same time, we retain our own sovereignty – if not, what were the budget and Queen's speech about? To vote Remain is in both our own self-interest and will best serve our interests on the world stage. Beware the pied pipers of Brexit.

This vote matters and strength with Europe matters, especially to future generations.

Crucial vote

It's vital to support our carers

NEW findings show that three-fifths of carers have had to give up work or reduce their hours, whilst just under half have struggled financially.

As a charity helping people in financial hardship, this echoes what we hear on a daily basis, with many carers telling us they're struggling to buy food for their families, or are finding themselves increasingly in debt.

There is often a lack of awareness of what support is available among carers and other people in financial need, and sometimes a feeling that this support might not be for them.

We recently found that nearly half of low-income households are not claiming the welfare support they could qualify for, with 57 per cent believing they would not be eligible.

It is vital that carers are provided with the appropriate support to enable them to continue in their role, and we are working together with other charities and organisations to ensure that financial help is as accessible and prominent as possible.

We urge carers and anyone else experiencing financial hardship to use our free benefits calculator and grants search at Turn2us.org.uk to find out quickly and easily what support could be available.

It could make all the difference in easing some of the pressures they face.

Chief executive, Turn2us

The bakery's gone mad, but I've found a way to keep fit

Editor Andrew Parkes has a number of thoughts every week, here are just five of them

5 THOUGHTS OF THE WEEK...

1. That's it, I thought I'd seen it all, but now I know we've gone political correctness mad. Gazing longingly into the window of the local cake shop I noticed it was selling gingerbread men. But, wait for it, they're now calling them "ginger persons". What on earth's next? Will someone decide this is gingerist? Will they then start selling "persons"?

2. By the time you read this you will probably have cast your vote and may even know this country's in/out future. Whatever the decision I couldn't help being surprised when a straw poll was taken at a meeting of newspaper editors. I was astonished that the large majority were convinced we would vote to leave.

3. Forget fancy gyms, faddy diets and personal health instructors, if you want to get fit go and dig a hole. I had a smashed storm drain and after shifting all the paving slabs I had to dig a hole four feet deep and three metres long (funny how if you're a certain age you can happily use feet and metres). Anyway, it was exhausting and located muscles I'd forgotten I had. If I did this every day I'd be as fit as a flea.

4. And talking of digging holes – how would you like to be remembered after you die? I hadn't thought about it until this week and anyway, I think that once you're gone you're gone so there's no point worrying about it. I'm certainly not interested in any sort of plaque or headstone. However, having spent a few days in Darlington I've noticed a number of folks have had pubs named after them. Safe to say, I've now decided how I'd like to be remembered by future generations.

5. Parking must be the simplest, most straightforward element of driving. And frankly if you can't park properly then you shouldn't be on the road. So, why do so many inconsiderate dipsticks insist upon parking across two spaces when they could so easily keep their vehicle within the designated, marked area?

FILM – The Secret Life of Pets, out Friday: From the makers of Despicable Me and starring the voice talents of Louis CK and Kevin Hart, this animated family movie is about a pair of mismatched dogs in a Manhattan apartment who come up against a seemingly adorable white rabbit and his army of abandoned pets with an evil scheme.

A new drama about dysfunctional hard-drinking friends which opens in Battersea at the end of the month started life in a completely different form.

"It actually came from a poem, funnily enough," playwright Kathryn O'Reilly told What's on about her debut production, Screwed, which opens at Theatre503 on June 28.

"The poem itself was a comedy and it was quite crude and it was about these girls that fantasised over these guys and how the guys looked and what they would do with them in bed and stuff like that.

"As I started to write into a play, the characters got darker and darker."

Screwed follows factory workers Luce and Charlene.

O'Reilly said: "You have got these 30-something women who are carrying on in a way they did when they were 19, 20, 21, 25. They are still in that lifestyle.

"They are binge-drinking alcoholics, they are thrillseekers and they are looking for immediate gratification. They are co-dependant and they are a bit of a double act.

"They work and work is a big part of someone's self. They go out, they get smashed, and they turn up at work and think they are doing a great job."

While the audience will feed off the pair's fun-loving search of a good time, O'Reilly said there is something much less carefree and comedic underlying their behaviour.

She said: "Essentially they are a double act and they go out and have a great time and hopefully the audience go on that journey with them and see the great time that they have.

"They talk about all their sexual conquests and they are constantly vibing off each other.

"I think beneath all that confidence and bravado there is a sense of self hatred. There are other things they are covering up.

"There are a lot of underlying issues they haven't deal with. Part of the reason is that because they are binge-drinking alcoholics, they haven't really grown up. They haven't grown up mentally and they haven't

What's on

Actress and playwright Kathryn O'Reilly talks to JIM PALMER about her debut play Screwed which comes to Theatre503 in Battersea next week...

BAD GIRLS

grown up emotionally.

"It is not just a comedy, there are some quite hard-hitting issues in the play."

Screwed is Surrey actress and Brit School graduate O'Reilly's first drama to come to the stage. She is co-producing and was initially set to star as well before stepping back and helping to cast the central duo of Eloise Joseph (The Inbetweeners Movie) and Samantha Robinson.

And while she will attend some of the rehearsals, O'Reilly admitted she won't even get to see her own play launch as she's currently starring in the West End smash political satire A View from Islington North.

She said: "It is funny, isn't it, it feels like everything comes at once.

"You have moments of nothing and then all of a sudden everything comes in. It is a balancing act but I quite like that.

"I like having lots of different things to focus on because in a funny way it keeps you grounded as well. You have been far more practical when you have lots happening.

"And you know that when it's over, it's over. That's the thing about theatre, it's always fleeting.

She added: "Someone said to me 'it is going to be the highlight of your life sitting in the auditorium and seeing your play for the first time'. That I'm really thrilled about and really looking forward to.

"I'm very, very excited to see it because I've been working on it for a long time and so many people have been involved in helping it come to fruition that I think when I'm there and I can actually see it I think it will hit me more."

Screwed* is at Theatre503 in Battersea from June 28 to July 23. Tickets cost £15 or £12 or pay what you can on Sundays. For more details visit theatre503.com.

TASTYCLASS

It is a match made in culinary heaven – gourmet French chocolatier Valrhona has partnered with celebrity chef Eric Lanlard for exclusive chocolate classes in Wandsworth.

To celebrate the 30th anniversary of the brand's Guanaja 70 per cent chocolate – which is used by the world's top pastry chefs – the pair will host day-long classes at Lanlard's highly regarded Cake Boy in Battersea Reach.

French patissier Lanlard trained with Albert and Michel Roux and has fronted television shows such as Glamour Puds and Baking Mad. He is well-known for making wedding cakes for Madonna and Guy Ritchie, Liz Hurley, Claudia Schiffer and an birthday cakes for Brooklyn Beckham and the Queen Mother.

At the £250 classes, bakers will learn to make an Arabesque Gateaux Opera, a Hazelnut Chocolat Croustillant and a flourless Gateaux Chocolat.

Guests will also get lunch, a Cake Boy apron and gift voucher and take home a Valrhona gift bag.

The classes run from 9.30am to 5pm on June 30, August 18, September 29 and October 20. Go to cake-boy.co.uk/school.

ACE TOURS

Summer is here in London, which can only mean it's rapidly approaching Wimbledon time, writes Sam Bradley.

On June 27, the eyes of the sporting world will turn to the hallowed (and perfectly manicured to exactly 8mm) grass courts of the All England Club.

To get a sense of the atmosphere of the whole occasion, and to make sure preparations are all on track, I signed up for a tour of the courts and museum.

I was instantly engrossed by the wide array of exhibitions and activities in the museum; from items dating back to the first Championships in 1877 to a very entertaining game where visitors can test their reflexes against those of a professional tennis player.

Tour guide Keith blew us away with his passion and knowledge about absolutely anything tennis related. The tour is a leisurely stroll around the grounds and manages to include everything of interest, from sitting on centre court seats to tours of the interview rooms, broadcast centre and even the players areas.

I can't wait to experience it during the championship – see you there.

WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW: Tours of Wimbledon can be booked on the website wimbledon.com and last about two hours. The cost for the museum and tour is £24 for adults.

A small number of tickets to the Championships can be obtained online the day before play, however most public tickets are obtained by queuing outside the stadium. During the Championships, the museum is only open to ticket holders.

TECHTALK

Whether you're still on the look-out for a great late Father's Day present or you want to get your hands on some great tech yourself, the guys at Digitalised have some top picks...

In the week Sainsbury's was announced as the largest vinyl retailer in the UK, we thought we should include a record player and let the DJ's dust off their old collection and roll back the years.

With so much choice available we decided to recommend the Pro-Ject Elemental. Even though it is a budget player, it was plug and play and didn't disappoint. Available from £150.

Next up we have the Denon HEOS Cinema. This sound bar comes with a wireless subwoofer to bring your movies and sport to life. A perfect addition to accompany the Euro 2016 tournament. Not only is it a great addition to your TV setup, it can be used a part of a multi room audio setup. Available from £399.

An adrenalin junky? Why not treat yourself to an action cam? Designed to capture every jump, splash and fall.

We recommend the GoPro Hero4. Capable of 4K video and supplied with a waterproof housing he can capture all the action whether above or below water. Available from £400.

Finally, for the Lego enthusiasts among us, we have the Lego Porsche 911 GT3 RS kit.

Admittedly not that techy, this is the perfect gift for the Lego and car enthusiasts and one definitely not for children. It comes with an extensive manual and also a chunky price tag of £250.

MAKING WAVES

A mega family-friendly aqua obstacle course is coming to south west London this summer.

The RNLI's Splash Fest will transform Battersea Park into a 2.5km trail and 'lively event village' on Sunday, August 7.

Watery fun for families with children aged seven to 12 has five zones to keep families entertained. They include:

- The Bubby Brook with giant bubbles, a maze, music and a bandstand marooned in a sea of foam.

- Wild Wild Waters with geyser-spouting water to dodge.

- Splash n Shoot where people in giant boats will take aim at floating targets.

- Slip-Slide Stream with toboggan-style water slides

- Crazy Canyon with pools to cross on floating devices and a giant inflatable slide.

The RNLI's Lauren Pincott said: "Splash Fest promises to be an exciting day out for all the family, with five action-packed zones of watery challenges, and an event village with live music, entertainment, games and an all-important drying-off area."

"Not only will families have fun, they'll be helping to save lives as the RNLI will use all profits to help fund its life-saving work."

Tickets cost £22 for adults and £10 children aged three to 18 in advance or £25/£12.50 on the day. Go to splashfest.co.uk for further information.

WIN INDEPENDENCE DAY: RESURGENCE GOODIES

Twenty years after aliens caused devastation to the US, they're back and intent on causing a global catastrophe on an unimaginable scale in Independence Day: Resurgence – and we've got some great goodies to give away.

Director Roland Emmerich's 1996 original bagged an Oscar for its dazzling visual effects and he's only learnt more about filming destruction with films like Godzilla (1998), The Day After Tomorrow (2004), 2012 (2009) and White House Down (2013). Will Smith may not be back but Jeff Goldblum and Bill Pullman are among the returning stars joined by newbies led by Liam Hemsworth.

Using recovered alien technology from the attack two decades earlier, the nations of Earth have collaborated on an immense defence programme. But nothing can prepare them for the ferocity of the aliens' return. We have three prize packs to give away to lucky readers on our What's On South London Facebook page.

To be in with a chance of winning, simply like the page, find the link to this story and leave a comment telling us your favourite disaster movie (that's not Independence Day).

We'll pick three winners after the closing date – 5pm on Thursday, June 30. Entrants must have a UK address to send the prizes to. Normal Ts and Cs apply. Go to newsquest.co.uk/terms.

Useful steps to help you through your time of need...

When someone dies there are many decisions and arrangements to make, all of which can be difficult in a time of grief. We have put together this guide to help you through the first few steps

Before you start, it would be useful to have the following information to hand about the person who has died

- National Insurance number
- NHS number
- date and place of birth
- date of marriage or civil partnership (if appropriate)
- tax reference number

What to do in the first five days:

There are a few steps that need to be taken shortly after the death. In many cases the hospital or GP involved will help you with these early steps:

- notify the family GP
- register the death at a register office
- find the will - the deceased person's solicitor may have a copy if you can't find one
- begin funeral arrangements - you will need to check the will for any special requests
- if relevant, complete form BDB given to you when you register the death and send to the local Jobcentre Plus or Social Security
- if the person who has died was receiving any benefits or tax credits, advise the offices that were making the payments - if you can't find relevant correspondence, use the links below to the tax credit helpline and Jobcentre plus

More detailed information can be obtained from:

SEAT Alhambra named Best MPV in 2016 Tow Car Awards

The new SEAT Alhambra has pulled off another honour, being named Best MPV in the 2016 Tow Car Awards. It's a first title for the latest generation of the seven-seat Alhambra, introduced this spring, sustaining its impressive reputation for being the best all-round proposition on the market – a status reflected in more than a dozen independent award titles in recent years.

Speaking for the judges, David Motton, Tow Car Editor of Practical Caravan magazine, declared: The SEAT Alhambra is a very good MPV and a very capable tow car. With its combination of a high kerb weight, powerful engine and an extremely flexible cabin, it is a worthy winner.

"As a tow car, stability is its stand-out feature. It's reassuring at 60mph and untroubled at 70mph. Data we gathered from the AL-KO Active Trailer Control system backed up the impression of our drivers, this really is a very secure town car."

The model tested for the award was the £35,190 2.0 TDI 184PS SE Lux with DSG dual-clutch transmission, a version which delivers a perfect all-round package of performance, comfort, safety and quality.

It has a top towing capacity of 2.2 tonnes, while its latest-generation TDI engine musters 380 Nm of torque, all the way from 1,750 to 3,000 rpm, giving strong and smooth performance and working with the hassle-free DSG gearbox to deliver the kind of relaxing drive that's perfect for a long-distance trip, even when fully laden. Superb efficiency is reflected in official combined cycle fuel consumption of 53.3 mpg, with carbon dioxide emissions a modest 139 g/km, even though the powertrain has muscle enough to shift the Alhambra from rest to 62 mph in less than nine seconds.

The journey between caravan-hitch to caravan-pitch is made safe, comfortable and convenient in the high specification SE Lux, which includes family holiday-friendly features such as power-operated rear side doors and tailgate, chrome-finished roof rails, underfloor storage, rear seatback tables and a panoramic roof with opening front section. Satellite navigation with dynamic route guidance is included in the Media System Plus infotainment package, together with Bluetooth, DAB and integrated voice control. Up front the leather-upholstered sports-style seats are 12-way power-adjustable and the triple-zone climate control. Automatic headlight and windscreen wiper operation, reversing camera, triple-zone climate control and an auto-dimming rear-view mirror are featured, together with an impressive array of active and passive safety systems, including High Beam Assist, and SEAT's Multi-Collision Braking and Tiredness Recognition systems.

Steve Catlin, SEAT UK's Head of Sales Operations, said: "The Tow Car Award is a great accolade for the latest Alhambra and recognition for the way we've continued developing it to give customers the best possible all-round package. Not only does it have all the strength and stability required for effortless towing, it's also ideally equipped to cater for families on the move and designed with the sporting flair that defines our brand."

The Tow Car Awards, now in their tenth year, are organised and presented by Practical Caravan, What Car? and the Camping and Caravanning Club magazine.

Klein's on wild side

KINGSTON'S Brydan Klein, right, has been given wildcard spots in the main men's draws at the Wimbledon Championships, which start next week.

The 26-year-old Australian-born player, who switched allegiance to Britain in 2013, is ranked 185th in the world and partners Great Britain's Alex Ward in the men's doubles to go with his men's singles spot.

Surbiton Trophy doubles finalists Ken and Neal Skupski are in the men's doubles main draw.

Ayinde's status is assured

KINGSTON'S Anthony Ayinde cemented his position as a Queensbury Boxing League regional welterweight crown after edging out challenger Jon Martin on Saturday.

Ayinde successfully defended his Queensbury Boxing League regional welterweight crown for the second time with a majority points decision over his Bournemouth rival.

"I said in the build up I'd still be the champion after this fight and I've proved I'm one of the best out there now," said the champion.

"There was a lot of talk on social media about this fight and what he would do, but even though that was a majority decision, I felt I won nearly every round.

"He did catch me with a few shots, but my jab was key and my work rate was much higher."

Honoured

FORGET reaching the play-offs because if nothing else Kingston football clubs produce good goalkeepers – FACT.

Kingstonian's Rob Tolfrey was named in the Ryman Premier League's team of the year this week, while Corinthian Casuals' Danny Bracken received the same honour for Division One South.

Both clubs missed out on a top-five finish this term.

Number one: Casuals keeper and captain Danny Bracken

WELL PREPARED: Surbiton's Sbihi is in box seat for Olympic gold in Rio

Moe going for Rio gold

SPORTS EDITOR

STUART AMOS

samos@london.newsquest.co.uk

SURBITON'S Moe Sbihi and his Team GB men's four crew begin final preparations for the Olympic Games knowing a gold medal is theirs to lose.

Molesey Boat Club's Sbihi, George Nash, Constantine Louloulidis and Alex Gregory won the final World Cup regatta of the summer ahead of August's main event in Brazil.

They clocked five minutes 42.79 seconds to beat world champions Italy into second and long-time rivals Australia into third.

It was the crew's third golden success of the summer after winning the European Championship and the second World Cup regatta – both in May – having skipped April's first World Cup meet.

They dominated the race from start to finish to lead through all the timing points before claiming victory by a length – an advantage they had maintained from the midway point.

Former Hollyfield School student Sbihi, 28, said: "You talk about scenarios pre-race and you are nervous because you don't know what might happen. But we stuck to the plan and that felt good."

Molesey clubmate Nash added: "That was good. That was very, very aggressive from us."

"We have a lot of respect for our opponents and know what they could do to us, but it was humming, really humming. We really enjoyed going out there and giving it a go."

Team GB, who won five golds at the weekend, now enter their final training camp in good shape for the trip to Rio.

The men's four is the same boat Sir Steve Redgrave made his name in and is the blue-ribboned event of the Olympic regatta where sporting immortality awaits.

London 2012 men's four gold medal winner Gregory added: "That was the first time this season we have moved into our race rhythm and felt what we have felt in training."

Flying form: Moe Sbihi already has two World Cup rowing golds and an European Championship title to his name this summer in the Team GB men's fours crew

"Now we go away to training camp where none of life's distractions interfere and we can be totally focused."

Rain is no friend as Wanderers crash at home

MALDEN Wanderers beat the weather on Saturday, but captain James Wackett may well wish his side had not after a six-wicket defeat to Valley End.

Had Wanderers seen their game at Cambridge Avenue cancelled they would have collected four points, but instead had to settle for one as the visitors overhauled the hosts' 152 all out.

Opener Alex Butler (76)

starred with the bat, but only two other players reached double figures in an otherwise miserable looking card for Wackett's men.

Wanderers are only 10 points above second-bottom

Old Rutlishians and head to Old Whitgiftians on Saturday.

Division Four Kingstonian saw their clash with Farncombe rained off and they head to new leaders Sanderstead this week.

Door still open for Jake

THE Kingsmeadow door remains open to striker Jake Kempton, says Ks assistant boss Graham Harper.

The former Wolverhampton Wanderers youngster scored seven goals in 24 league and cup appearances last term – one a contender for goal of the season against Met Police in August – but injury curtailed his campaign.

Kempton did not feature at all in the club's disastrous Ryman Premier League run-in and will not be part of plans for the forthcoming campaign.

But Harper has not given up on the 22-year-old.

"I really like Jake as a person and a player, so you never say never," he said.

"He just needs to play games and score goals somewhere and he has not been able to do that here."

"He started the season well, but then got injured and could not get fit or sharp enough to start."

"Because we do not have a reserve team it is difficult to get match fit without going out on loan and he did not want to do that."

"You cannot get match fit by sitting on the bench."

Unlucky: Former Kingstonian attacker Jake Kempton, right, has been plagued by injury for much of his brief career

SPORTSbrief

ATHLETICS: Kingston AC & Polytechnic Harriers athletes were in Southern Athletics League Division Two West action at Kingsmeadow stadium on Saturday. Kingston, promoted from Division Three South West last summer, were sixth in the table going into the third match of the campaign. Javelin thrower Sophie Dimbleby, above, was among those competing.

HOCKEY: Surbiton's Great Britain trio of Giselle Ansley, Hollie Webb and Georgie Twigg saw their country's Champions Trophy campaign get off to a slow start at the weekend. The Brits, ranked sixth for the tournament, drew 2-2 with second ranked Argentina on Saturday before losing 2-0 to the Netherlands on Sunday. Great Britain's women were in action at Lee Valley on Wednesday when they faced New Zealand. Meanwhile, Surbiton men Willie Marshall and Nick Parkes helped Scotland win the Four Nations Invitational tournament, where they topped the table ahead of hosts Poland, France and Italy.

FOOTBALL: Kingstonian have launched their Boost the Budget initiative, giving supporters the chance to donate cash direct to boss Tommy Williams' playing finances. The club have also launched their Sponsorship SuperDraw to find a new first team shirt sponsor. Tickets cost £500 each and up for grabs is the front of the hooped jersey as well as slots on the back, shorts, polo shirts, tracksuits and much more. For full details of both schemes email Yioryos Vasilaras at marketing@kingstonian.com.

ATHLETICS: Stragglers Running Club's Rob Wilcox clocked 36 minutes 16 seconds to finish 25th at the senior men's Surrey Road Race Championships in Ham on Sunday. Wilcox was 42nd overall, while clubmate Chris Walsley (35:55) finished 10th in the 40-49 years old veteran men's category.

PARKRUN: Tom Jervis secured his sixth win in seven Bushy Park parkrun appearances this year as he clocked 15 minutes 41 seconds – a new best – to win on Saturday.
